NEW YORK BLOWER BEGINS CONSTRUCTION IN SHENANGO

New York Blower broke ground recently on a 30,000-square-foot addition adjacent to its 15,000-square-foot building. The company, based in Willowbrook, Illinois, manufactures fans and blowers for industrial buildings and original equipment manufacturers.

The $4.7 million expansion expects to be in full production by next summer. The privately-held, 128-year-old company entered the regional market when it purchased the former MAS Air Systems, Inc., about eight years ago.

Shenango Township and Shenango Area Schools approved a tax abatement district for the Shenango Commerce Park, said Al Burick III., who serves on the township's board of supervisors. The five-year abatement on real estate improvements is 100% for the first year and declines over the term of the abatement. Other incentives approved for the project include a $75,000 Pennsylvania First grant, an $18,400 WEDnet grant for job training and $44,000 in job creation tax credits to be distributed upon the creation of the new jobs. The plant currently employs about 20 employees and New York Blower anticipates increasing that, to around 50.
